Over the past two decades, Nepal has made substantial strides in education, with a remarkable 90% net enrolment rate in primary schools. However, challenges persist, encompassing issues such as unequal access, geographical isolation, gender disparities, and socioeconomic divisions. Barriers to attendance encompass poverty, social exclusion, disability, migration, child labor, and gender biases. This project aims to: (1) Foster foundational education in schools to expedite learning recovery. (2) Galvanize school management networks as a sustainable platform, enhancing children's educational access.
